Dear Chris

I have had the pleasure of witnessing the development of Freedom Housing over the past years. Personally and professionally, I feel Freedom Housing has the potential to address many of the shortfalls of current housing for the elderly and disabled within our community. It can be more humane, safer, and economical than nursing and residential homes. As a Consultant physician working within the National Health Service, I am all too aware of the problem of re-housing and long term care of the elderly and believe this will be a refreshing approach to this problem.

I wish you well with this project in Australia and hope that this model can also be established within the UK.

Kind regards

Parth Narendran
